Project Approvals Transforming the Shambles BM presented information on an outline business case (OBC) and appraisal that have been brought to the board for the Shambles project. The CBC Internal Programme Board had reviewed the outline business case submitted for the project and an appraisal has been prepared in line with programme governance arrangements. BM advised that the CBC's Internal Programme Board (IPB), as Accountable Body for the programme has considered the OBC and appraisal and recommended to the Town Board that the project be approved for delivery from 2026 onwards. A discussion took place surrounding the building improvement grant scheme and detail was given on how the scheme would work. JR raised the opportunities for construction T Level students to support this project as additional government funding has been allocated. B. Feasibility Study Update

Community Hub

CD presented an update to the Board on the Community Hub feasibility study. The Board were reminded that the purpose of the study was to develop a scope for a shared community space in Chesterfield Town Centre.

CD advised that KADA Research have been preparing two final reports, one covering a strategic overview that sets out the demand and scope and the other an operational and financial document that details a viable model. The reports will be shared once the final documents are complete and will be available when soft market testing commences.

A proposed way forward was presented to the Board. To protect any future procurement and commissioning process the operational and financial document will only be shared through an approved soft market testing exercise that will include all potential applicants and beneficiaries. This allows a fair and transparent process to take place.

The next steps to move to a soft market testing exercise was approved. This was approved by the Board.

Events and Animation

IW presented an update to the Board on the finalised feasibility study for Events and Animation. The Board were informed that V4 the consultants have now completed their work.

The feasibility study was based on engagement and best practice from comparative areas. The study highlighted that Chesterfield's events activity is currently in a good place. Key opportunities were proposed including a layered and seasonable approach to delivery. V4 highlighted the importance of designing a vibrant Town Centre and how the funding from Pride in Place that has been approved for the next two years is activity supporting an enhanced programme of activity.

Resources were discussed and it was suggested that future considerations could include funding a member of staff to support capacity and in turn enabling further event opportunities.

It was noted that the Communications and Engagement group do have an enabling role that would help grow conversations with local businesses to understand the impact each event has.

	Data was highlighted as a valuable tool to support the understanding of what impact each event has on the Town Centre. Current and future data capture was discussed. It was recommended that the Board considered the request for CBC to bring back a further Outline Business Case to fund Events and Animation for years 3 and 4 of the investment plan and to note the additional events that the Pride in Place investment has enabled. This was agreed. Action: • To circulate the survey results from the 1940's engagement that was conducted. • For CBC to develop a further OBC for the Events and Animation project for the funding of a further two years of the project. C. Overview of all Projects DS asked the Board to note that this paper had been shared and if there was any questions. No questions were asked.	RB IW
